

Leading Energy into the Future

Company Dossier

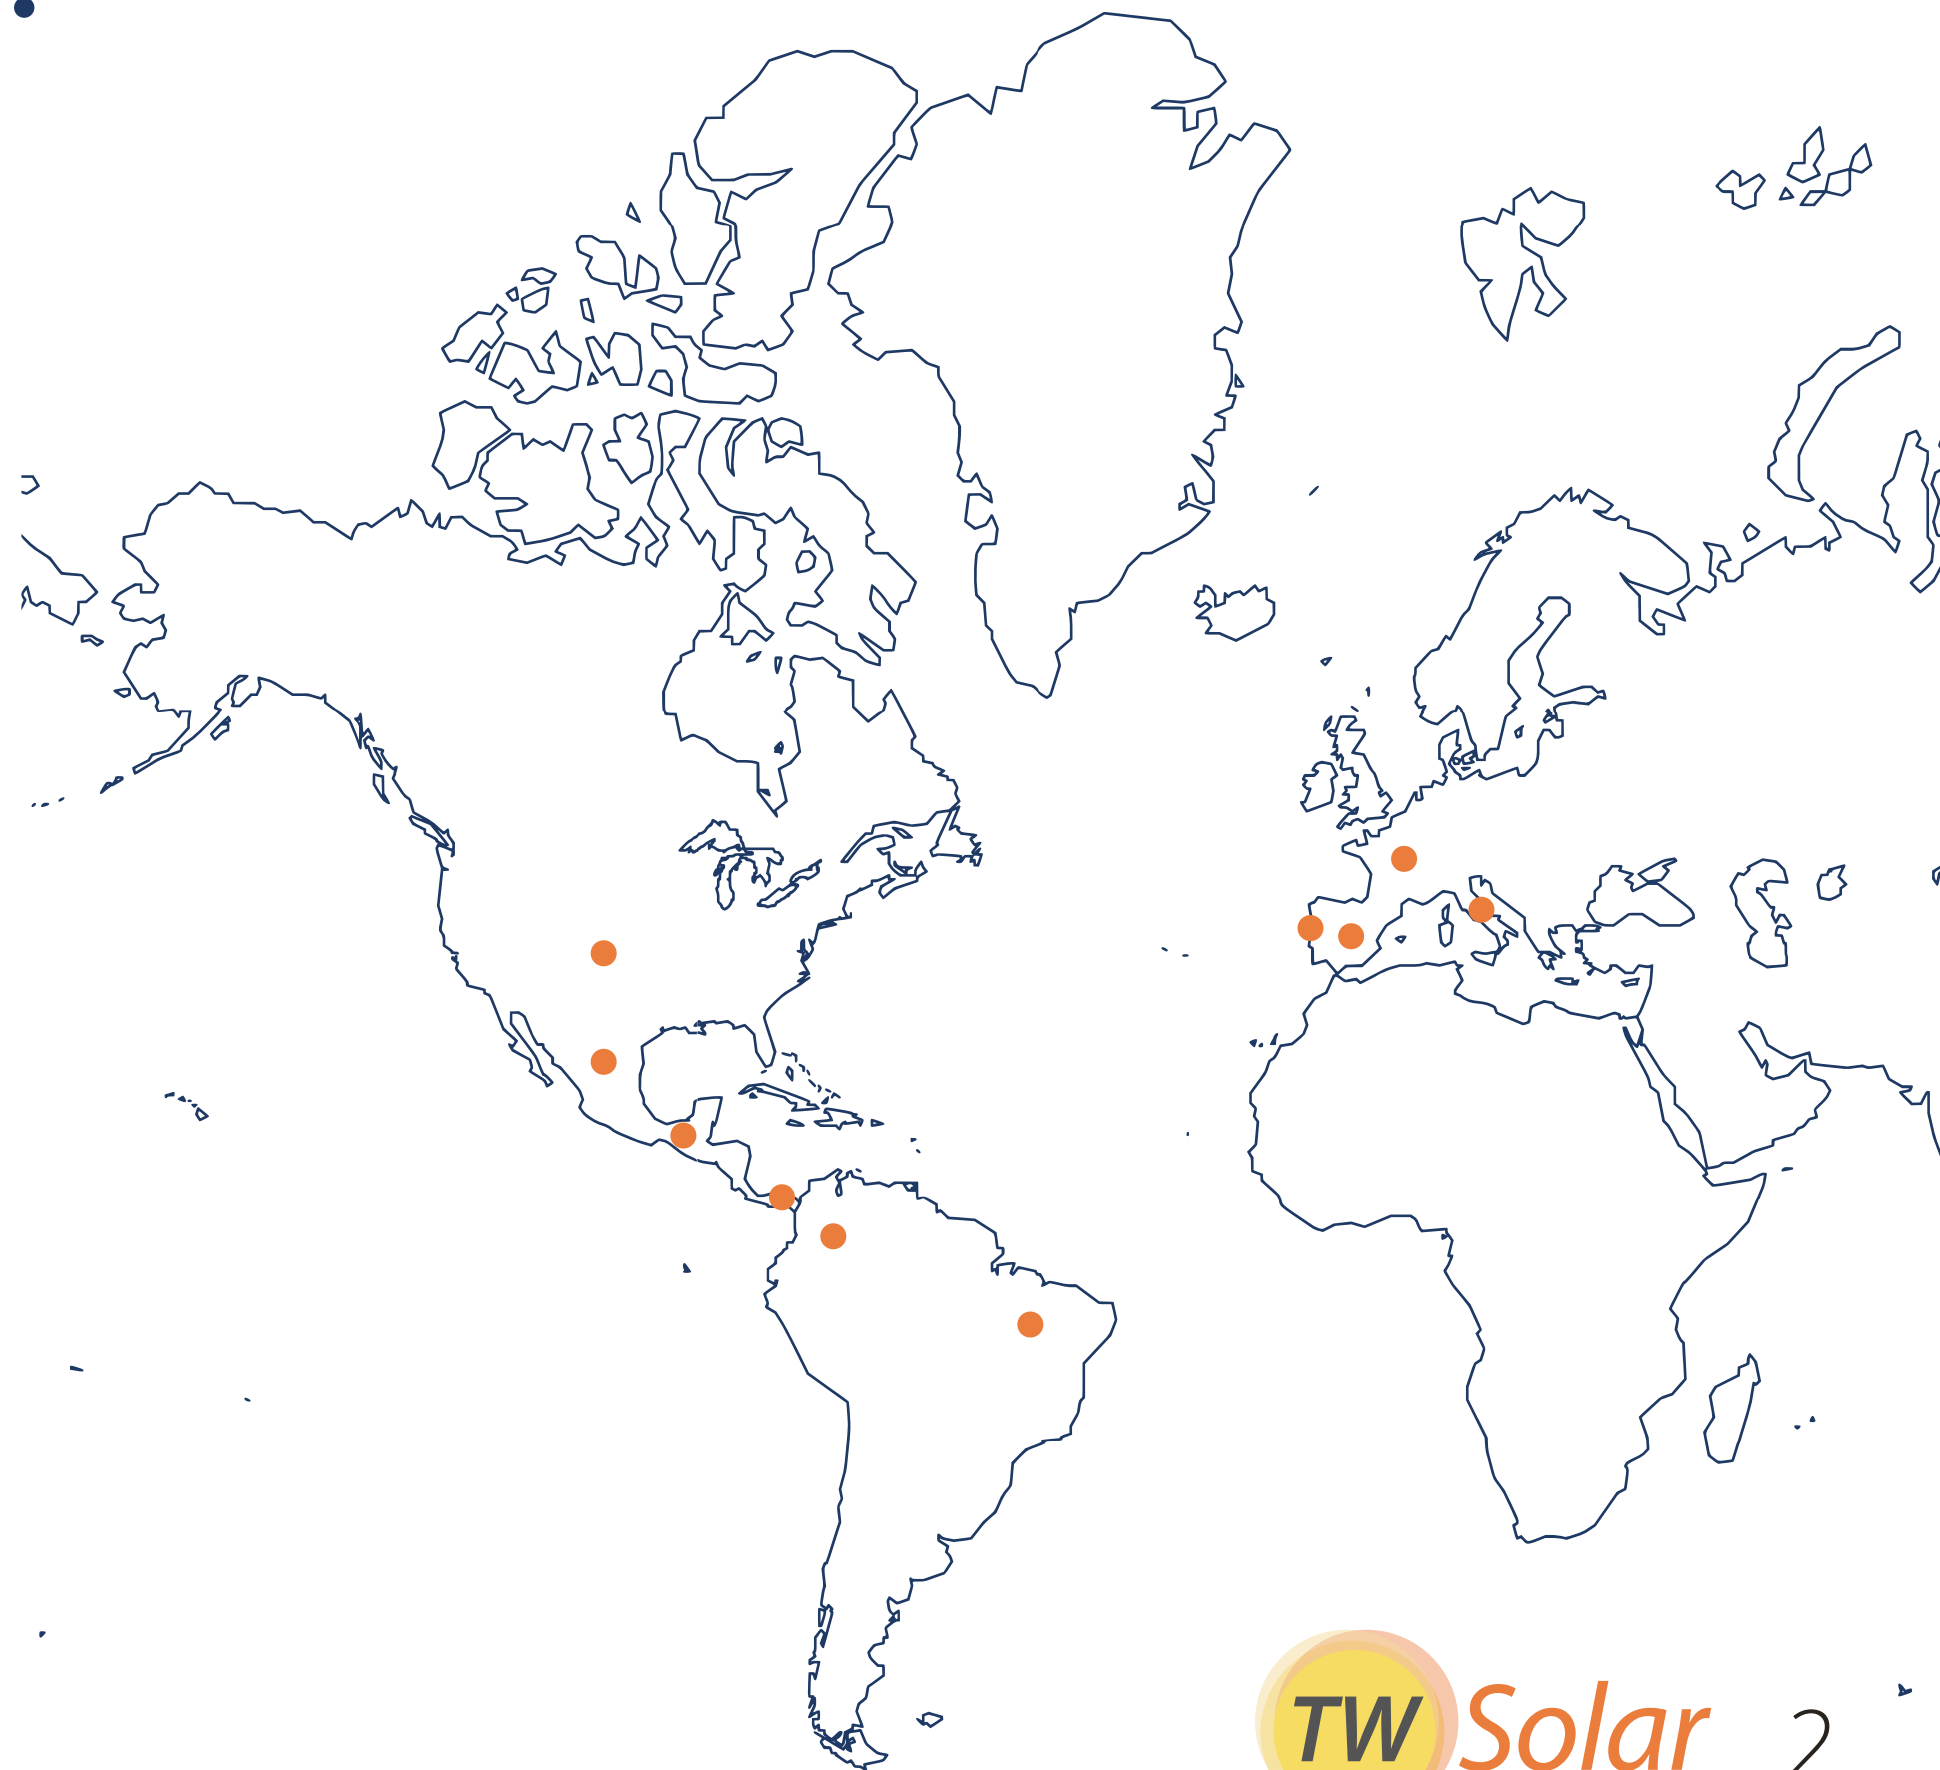

TW SOLAR

Spanish company dedicated to the design and development of power generation projects using renewable energy sources, and the production of green hydrogen, the fuel of the future.

With more than 15 years of experience in project development, TW Solar has positioned itself as a leading company in the renewable energy market, with more than 60 expert professionals and operational offices in 5 countries.

We have developed our portfolio across Europe, Latin America and the United States. Currently with a pipeline of projects under development of 7 GW in 10 countries. Supporting the transition towards a more sustainable energy system.

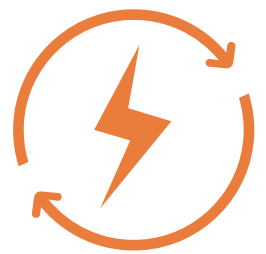

Renewable Energy

We support the transition towards a fully sustainable energy model through a range of services promoting the use of renewable energy sources: Photovoltaic, Wind and Green Hydrogen (H₂) production systems.

Decarbonization of production. The carbon footprint is lowered by a factor of one ton of CO₂ per year for each kilowatt installed.

Clean and flexible energy production, three times more powerful than gasoline and other fossil energy sources.

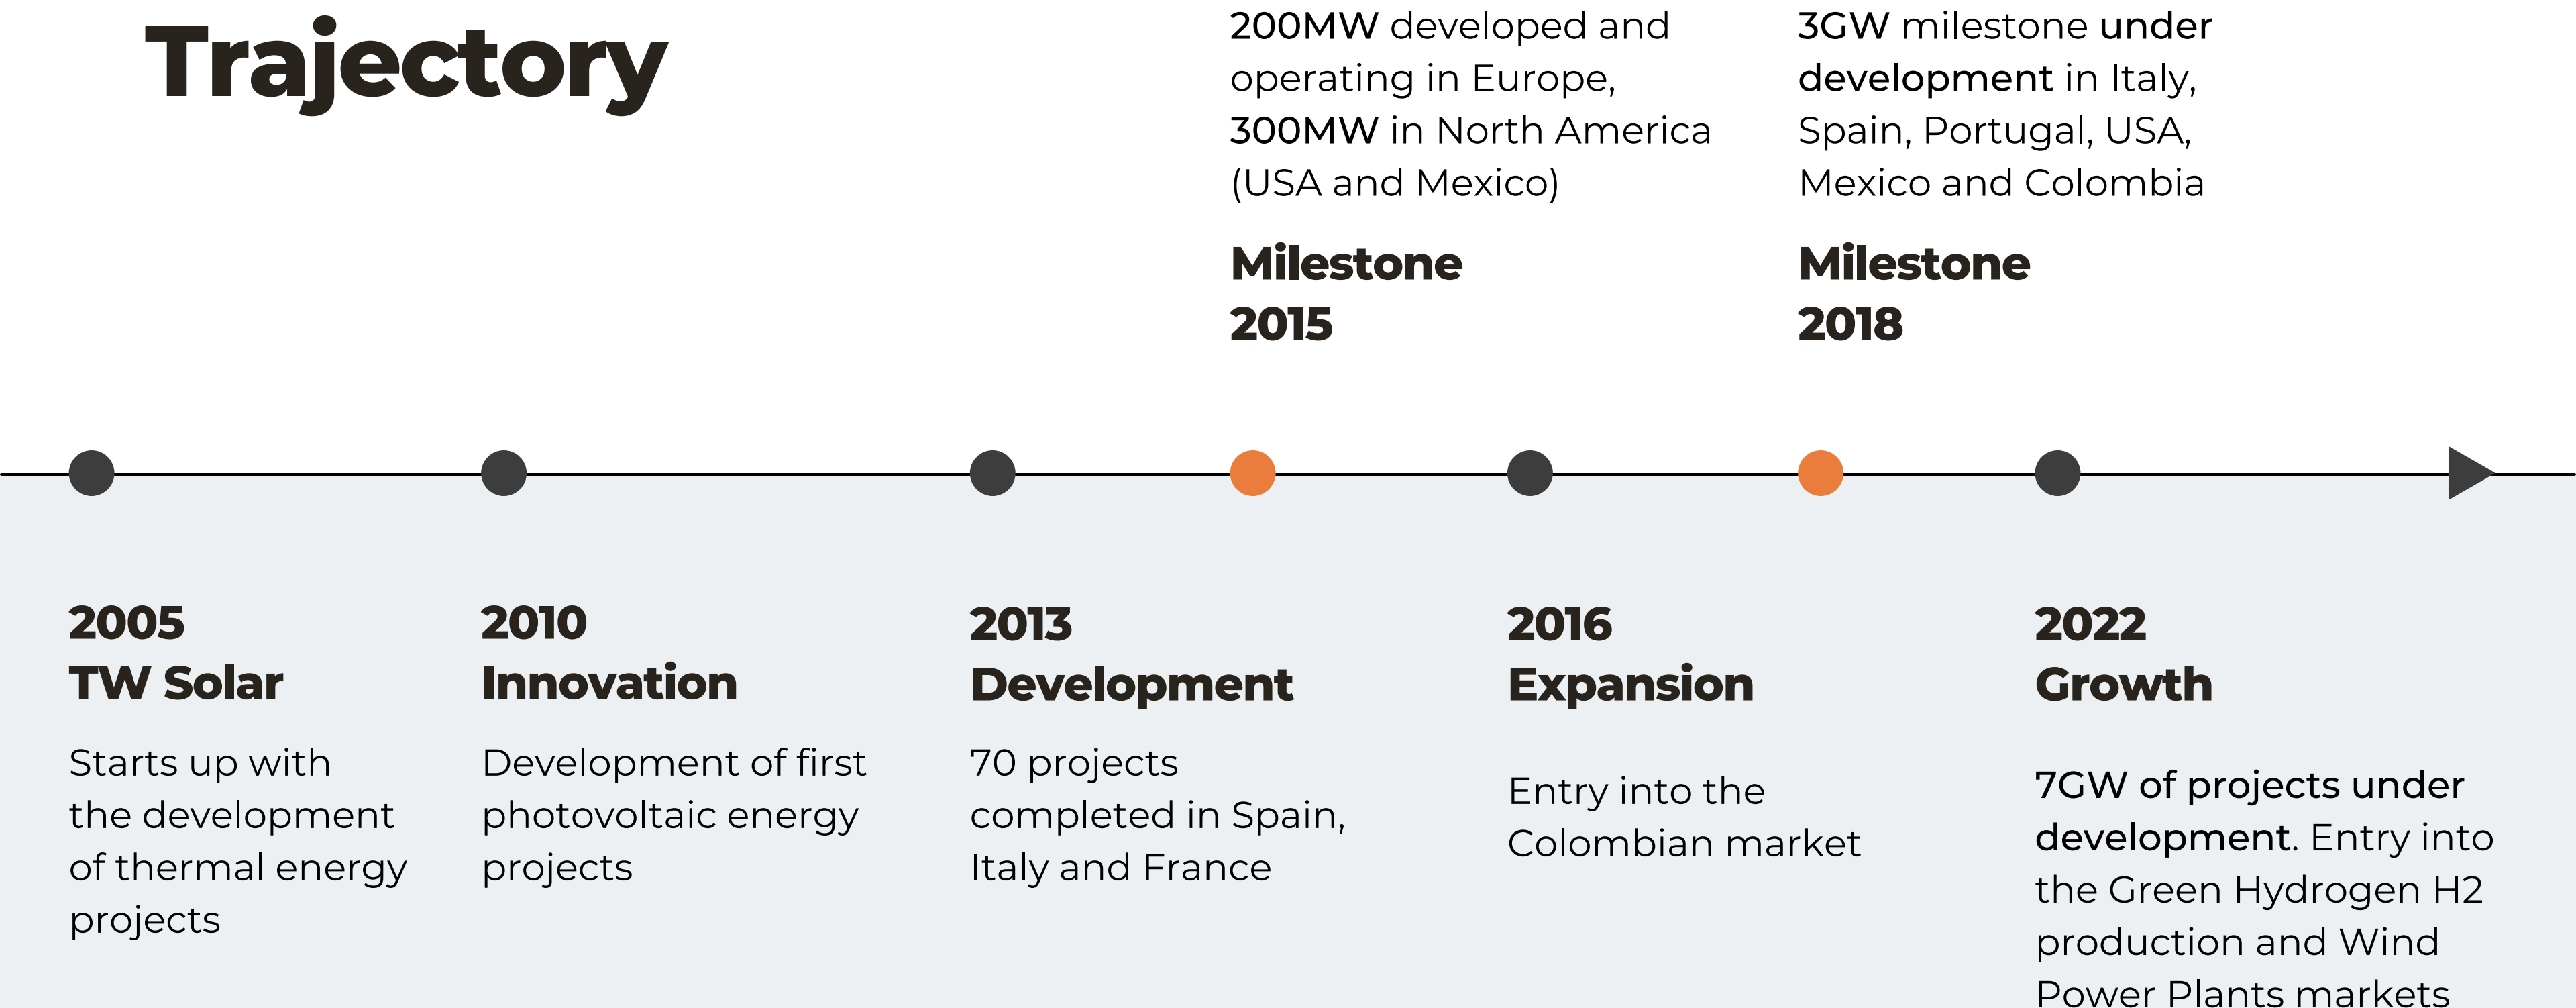

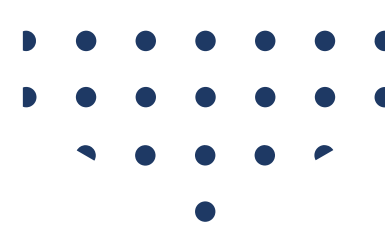

Our Approach

We have a strong commitment to innovation in industrial and technological development. Our project development criteria, task management and investment objectives are focused on obtaining the best overall benefits.
